

work with you on that. I think we may come to a parting of the ways on license revocation because I feel that is a very important part of this bill. We've done a lot of discussing on different aspects. I really want to bring it back to something that I think is so important. We are doing this for the children of Nebraska. The money that is collected, part of it goes to the Department of Social Services to help with the ADC moms, but that is only about 14 or 15 percent. The rest of the money goes directly to the families that need it. This is a preventative measure we can do so that we do not have women and children going on ADC. I think if our priority is children, this is legislation that we should support because this is what we are talking about. I think we've talked about visitation versus child support. You know, there is other statistics out there that say if they pay their child support they are more likely to come and visit their children, where maybe they haven't been doing it in the past. So it works both ways, and it is on both sides, and I think it is important that we look at this. We are not on the cutting edge of doing this. It has been done in many, many other states. I talked to some senators over the weekend from different states, and some states that I was not even aware of have passed legislation. New Hampshire was one. Their license revocation includes everything, hunting, fishing licenses, the whole...every type of license. The thing, and Senator Lindsay said once we can't look at the other states to what they have raised, and I agree with that it is different, but the important thing is in every state their child support collections have gone up. South Dakota reported a 30 percent increase in child support, and, remember, only 14 percent of that, or 15 percent of that increase that we get will be going to the Department of Social Services to help with ADC moms. That part will be going to help so that taxpayers are not responsible for paying someone else's responsibility with their children, so that is an important factor. But still the majority of the money we are raising is going directly to, and it is generally women, the women and children, where it is owed. So I think it's very important legislation for children, and I think it is very important legislation for the women in the State of Nebraska. Again, I appreciate all the work on it. I am more than willing to work on things, but I would urge you all to vote to move this to Select File. Thank you.

SPEAKER WITHEM: The question before the body now then is the advancement of LB 592 to E & R Initial. All in favor...there has been a request for a roll call vote. Mr. Clerk.
